A screenshot of the IBM Support website's "Open a case" page. The top navigation bar includes the IBM logo, a search icon, a user icon, and links for "Support", "Downloads", "Documentation", "Forums", "Cases", "Monitoring", and "Manage support account". A blue "Open a case" button is on the right. Below the navigation bar, the breadcrumb "Home /" is followed by the heading "Open a case". The main content area is divided into a left sidebar and a right form area. The sidebar lists sections: "General" (selected), "Product information", "Severity and account information", "Case description", and "Attachments and team members". The "General" section in the form area contains two fields: "* Type of support" with a dropdown menu showing "Product support", and "* Case title" with a text input field containing the placeholder "Create a title for this case". A character count "0/255" is shown below the title field. Below the form area, the heading "Product information" is visible. A blue "Chat with Support" button is located at the bottom right of the page.
